Failure to meet these criteria will result in the exclusion of the paper from the evaluation process and presentation at the Conference.

6. Review

Papers are reviewed using a double-blind review process in order to ensure the academic quality and scientific relevance of the selected papers, highlighting those that reflect the results of research already completed or at an advanced stage of development, thus guaranteeing the effective contribution to the debates and discussions in groups and other spaces of the event.

A single-round of review will be conducted not allowing corrections, thus, papers must be submitted in their final version following the guidelines provided here.

7. Presentation and register

Papers accepted and with registered author(s) will be presented in thematic sessions and grouped by theme, as indicated in the submission.

The presentations are limited to 3 per registered author.

Each author will have 10 minutes for oral presentation of the paper. You must use the template in <https://www.anptur.org.br/seminario> , observing the limit of slides and fixed time, in order to privilege the debate and discussions at the end of the presentations. Multimedia projector will be provided.

Papers that are accepted will be included in the program providing that at least one author register for the Conference.

Presentations will be scheduled in the parallel session such a way as to avoid overlaps concentration of authors and themes, favoring the permanence of authors and audience for the full length.

8. Certification and Awards

A certificate of participation and/or presentation of papers will be made available on the Conference website after its closure.

The certificate of presentation will be issued to papers presented orally at the thematic sessions.

The Certificate of Best Article will be awarded to the one with the highest mean score in the reviews of each Scientific Division and presented at the Conference, in an award session scheduled in the program.

9. Publication

The summaries of the presented papers will be published in the Annals of the Conference ANPTUR 2018, in digital format and made available on the conference's website.

The award-winning papers can benefit from fast track in tourism journals linked to the ScieLo base and supported by ANPTUR.
